The committee on resolutions being called for submitted the following which was adopted.

The republican party of the state of Colorado in convention assembled declare

First—We endorse and ratify the action of the national convention and pledge the electoral vote of Colorado to Harrison and Morton.

Second—We favor liberal pensions to ex-union soldiers and sailors.

Third—We favor the enactment of laws that will fully and thoroughly protect our laboring people against the competition of imported Chinese and all foreign contract labor, and that will protect them in the preservation of their rights and secure to them safety in their employment; and we denounce the present national administration for its utter failure to guard against the degradation of American labor.

Fourth—We heartily approve the action of the republican senators in congress in resisting the Delmas treaty and endorse their patriotic endeavor in upholding American rights and American honor and we assert that the message of President Cleveland on the 23rd day of August is a confession that his administration has been grossly negligent in not protecting American fisheries.

Fifth—We declare the foundation of our free institutions consists in the purity of the ballot, the security of elections and the guarantee of honest returns, and we favor all practical legislation that will promote these results and that will check all corrupting influences of the ballot.

Sixth—We demand the free and unlimited coinage of silver and a national financial and industrial policy that is American and not English.

Seventh—We favor fair but stringent legislation respecting the railways in our state. We [illegible] ... and all discriminations should be prohibited and the prohibition readily enforced by heavy penalties. We also demand legislation that will prevent the charging of exorbitant rates. We also demand legislation prohibiting all officers, judicial, legislative and executive from accepting directly or indirectly railway passes or free tickets.

Eighth—We also declare in favor of stringent state and national legislation prohibiting trusts and combinations of every kind and nature.

Ninth—We express our love and admiration for General Sheridan and in common with all Americans mourn the nation's loss of one of its most illustrious and [illegible] leaders.

Tenth—That while we uphold the national government in all its [illegible] to preserve the public domain for the benefit of honest settlers we most certainly condemn the course pursued by the present administration in its wholesale attempt to cancel and annul pre-emption and homestead entries at the instance of land agents, thereby tyrannically and dishonestly taking from poor but honest settlers their money and homes.

Eleventh—We condemn the democratic administration for loaning subsistence of the people currency to national banks without interest and without warrant or justification.

[illegible] ... we endorse the course pursued by our delegation in congress which the people can never repay. The noble, zealous and distinguished public services of Thomas M. Bowen, H. M. Teller and [illegible] ... state are permanent and far reaching in good results.

Thirteenth. That the legislature enact laws providing for the protection of the health and safety of those employed in mining and other hazardous occupations.

Fourteenth. That the [illegible] ... state be so amended as to submit to the laborer wages [illegible] ... practiced at the [illegible] ... persons. We urge our congressional delegation to continue their efforts to secure all the legislation necessary to perfect a system of reservoirs on the Rocky mountains for irrigating purposes. We approve of a liberal appropriation from the legislature to be expended by a bureau of immigration for the purpose of inducing immigration and advertising the resources of the state.

The Republican Gubernatorial Campaign in Indiana

Opened With a Monster Out-Door Demonstration at Indianapolis.

Judge Thurman Taken Ill While Speaking in New York.

Minnesota Republicans Declare for a Reduction of the Tariff.

INDIANAPOLIS, September 6.—The republicans of Indianapolis held a great outdoor demonstration tonight the occasion being the return of General A. H. Hovey, the republican candidate for governor and the active inauguration of the gubernatorial campaign. It is estimated that fully 60,000 persons were present. Porter and General Hovey, a [illegible] ... went up from the multitude and was carried all the way down Pa. [illegible] ... The column was fifty minutes passing the reviewing stand and it is estimated that from 50,000 to 10,000 men were in line. The column marched to Tomlinson hall where it broke ranks to participate in the mass meeting. General Harrison, Governor Porter and Governor Hovey addressed the audience briefly, discussing the issues of the campaign.

Thurman Taken Ill.

NEW YORK, September 6.—Madison square garden was covered with a mighty swarm of people tonight upon the occasion of the democratic reception to Allen G. Thurman and when its holding capacity was exhausted it served as a center to many thousands of people who were addressed by different speakers on the streets adjacent to the building. At eight o'clock Calvin S. Brice, [illegible] ... member of the national campaign committee, appeared on the speaker's stand, came in search of Thurman. He was [illegible] ... and the moment he made himself heard above the din and called the meeting to order and presented Hon. Roswell P. Flower.

Flower made a short speech, touching mainly upon the treasury surplus. Flower was still speaking when the crowd near the Madison square entrance began to cheer, drowning the voice of the speaker as they announced the coming of Thurman. As he made his way to the platform the cheers were redoubled. Handkerchiefs were waved and the band struck up "Hail to the Chief." Flower, who had not attempted to continue his speech, at once introduced Thurman, saying, "Fellow citizens, I have the honor to introduce to you the Old Roman—A. G. Thurman."

As Thurman stepped forward to the speaker's stand and stood erect, wiping the perspiration from his face with his handkerchief, the wildest excitement followed.

Everyone having a seat stood upon it. Ban[illegible] ... and flags were waved and the crowd cheered and cheered again, drowning the mailed sounds from the strains of the band. The cheering continued fully five minutes, then with a voice so feeble that only those within a few feet could tell except by the motion of his lips that he was speaking, Thurman said:

Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gentlemen: It has been said by the republican papers since I was nominated for the vice presidency that Allen G. Thurman is an old, frail, decrepit and broken down man. I do not know what I should reply to this although I well know I am in no condition to night to speak to an immense audience, such as this is. However, I want to speak on. In spite of my illness I am almost induced to make the attempt. I beg leave however to withdraw, thanking you for your reception. A hush fell upon the assemblage as all saw that the hero of the evening was trying to speak to them but was unable to do so.

Mr. Brice and Mr. Flower stepped forward and each taking Thurman by the arm assisted him from the speaker's stand. He was almost fainting for a few moments and was too sick to be removed from the building. When he had recovered sufficiently, Judge Thurman was taken in a carriage to the ladies entrance of the Fifth Avenue hotel, accompanied by Messrs. Brice and Barnum and his son, Allen W. Thurman. The judge was conducted to his room and was attended by Dr. Goldthwaite, the hotel physician. The latter applied remedies and later it was said that the distinguished patient would be all right in an hour or two. Dr. Goldthwaite said that the judge had been attacked with cholera morbus at [illegible] ... and he will be advised [illegible] ... to not exert himself by attending the big meeting. Judge Thurman insisted upon going to Madison square garden, notwithstanding the advice [illegible] ...

Minnesota Republicans.

ST. PAUL, Minn., September 6.—The platform submitted to the republican state convention this morning endorses the national ticket, points with pride to the results achieved under the state high license law, declares uncompromisingly in favor of American protection, adheres to the repeated declarations of the state and national platforms in favor of a liberal [illegible] ... readjustment and reduction of the tariff and reiterates the views of the republican presidents, Garfield and Arthur, upon the same subject as well as the recommendations of the commission appointed under the last republican administration. It declares that these reductions should be made with care and not injure existing industries, putting on the free list articles [illegible] ... for consumption which enter into the ordinary consumption of the people. It favors civil service reform, demands the enforcement of the inter-state commerce law, denounces the attempt of the democrats to force the senate into the ratification of the Fisheries treaty, denounces the Cleveland foreign policy as vacillating and declares the delay in the admission of Dakota as selfish and dishonest. It favors a liberal treatment of war veterans, declares hostility to three-cornered ballots, favors the Australian system of voting, demands a revision of the immigration and naturalization laws, and the strict enforcement of the contract labor laws.

[illegible] ... south on account of race to homes in Minnesota and sympathizes with Irish home rule movement.

[illegible] ... Barnes proceeds minority report.

The platform as read was adopted and the convention proceeded to the selection of a state ticket.

Chief Justice of the Supreme Court James Gilliam and Associate Justice L. W. Collins were renominated by acclamation. Three candidates for governor, Messrs. Scheffer, McGill and Merriam were put in nomination. The informal ballot resulted as follows: Whole number of votes cast 418, necessary to a choice 225, Clement 8, Gilman 17, Scheffer 116, McGill 130, Merriam 158.

Second informal ballot, necessary to a choice 224, Clement 8, Gilman 17, Scheffer 116, McGill 145, Merriam 161.

ST. PAUL, September 6.—The republican convention nominated W. R. Merriam for governor this afternoon. A. F. Rice was nominated for lieutenant governor and H. Matson for secretary of state.

District Convention.

DENVER, September 6.—The delegates of the Thirteenth senatorial district convention met at the St. James hotel this morning. N. G. Clark of Montrose, A. R. King of Delta, and I. W. Chatfield were nominated for state senator. After the first ballot, which resulted in no choice, King withdrew. On the second ballot Clark was declared nominated. Resolutions were passed endorsing Clark and Thomas of Gunnison.

The convention delegates of the Twelfth district nominated Wm. Gelder of Glenwood Springs for senator, and Mr. Bartholomew of Summit for representative.

After Stock Thieves.

DENVER, September 6.—A special to the Republican from Lay, Colo., says: Word comes from Vilas fifty miles south of this place, that seven horses were stolen from that vicinity Tuesday night. Their loss was not discovered until yesterday, when a party was organized to go into the neutral strip after the thieves. The party are armed with Winchesters and each man is well mounted. They will visit Squaw canon, where the outlaws are fortified in an old stone house. A desperate conflict may be looked for, as the men who compose the posse are determined fellows and good shots. A large number of horses and cattle have been stolen in that part of the country and the farmers are tired of it.

[illegible]

NEW YORK, September 6.—The stock market was unusually active this forenoon but relapsed into intense dullness after that, and while well held, became heavy and weak. Later in the day there was a [illegible] ... disposition on the part of the bear [illegible] ... to hammer the market and the realizations in coal stocks which were very heavy also led to the selling of other stocks. The close was fairly steady at or near the lowest prices of the day. With the exception of Oregon Navigation which rose one per cent, the entire active list is lower this evening though outside of St. Paul which lost ¾ and Rock Island one the losses are in fractional amounts only. Governments quiet and steady.

Lester Wallack Dead.

STAMFORD, Conn., September 6.—Lester Wallack died at 7:20 this morning. He was yesterday morning stricken with apoplexy and remained unconscious until he died. During the day Wallack was seized with eighteen or twenty convulsions some of which were very severe. The doctors were amazed at the manner in which he pulled through them. The patient said nothing and his [illegible] ... kept himself alive. Telegrams of condolence are pouring in from all parts.

A Disgusted Engineer.

WASHINGTON, September 6.—The inquiry into the report that an English army officer had secured complete plans of our coast defenses and copies of our submerged torpedo charts, brought out the statement that a young officer came here for that purpose, but left disgusted, being unable to learn anything not open to the public in general. Nevertheless in view of this and the strained relations with Canada it is said that the torpedo charts will be at once overhauled and rearranged.

New Hampshire Democratic State.

CONCORD, N. H., September 6.—The democratic state convention met this morning. S. W. Drew was chosen chairman. Charles Amsden and John Hasty were placed in nomination for governor. The committee on resolutions then made its report. After the reading and adoption of the platform Charles M. Amsden was nominated for governor. The platform declares in favor of tariff reform, free raw materials, the regulation of the liquor traffic in the manner found successful in other states, expresses sympathy with Ireland, and charges the republican party with being a syndicate of political speculators whose only purpose is to protect [illegible] ... great monopolies and trusts. After the selection of presidential electors the convention adjourned.

South Carolina Democratic State.

COLUMBIA, S. C., September 6.—At the democratic state convention today J. P. Richardson and W. L. Mauldin, the present incumbents, were nominated for governor and lieutenant governor.

There will be a stated conclave of Pike's Peak commandery this evening.

It is estimated that the potato yield on the Divide will be about three fourths of that of last year.

Callaway & Stark yesterday received two car loads of fine Utah wethers which they will kill for the local market.

A marriage license was issued yesterday to Mr. Henry L. McClure of Dawson Kan., and Miss Helen A. McCrary, of Kansas City.

Sperry & Tuckerman are the contractors who will build the large brick barn for Mr. B. H. Stevens in the rear of his present stable.

The Free Methodists, of Fountain, have organized a church society at that place with Messrs. William Sweetland, H. Crouch and G. I. Phillips as trustees.

The Young Helpers of the Christian church will give a musical at the residence of Judge Fields, No. 111 North Nevada avenue this evening. All are invited.

This is donation day at the Eleanor house Columbia and Weber streets. Anything in the way of provisions or house furnishings will be acceptable. Tea from 4 to 6 o'clock.

The state camp of the Patriotic Order Sons of America, meets in this city next Tuesday and Wednesday. On Wednesday evening there will be a grand street parade followed by a banquet.

Hons. Alfred Gillett and James Humprey, members of the board of railroad commissioners of Kansas, were in the city yesterday. Mr. Gillett is an old friend of Major Otis Remick, of this city.

Mr. J. O. Read, the proprietor of the Delmonico restaurant, announces this morning that the Delmonico will hereafter serve oysters in all styles. In this respect the Delmonico is surpassed by no similar establishment in the city.

Information is wanted of the whereabouts of Charles Lindenau, formerly of Orange county, New York. His last known address was Buena Vista, Colorado. He can hear of something to his advantage by addressing E. E. Garfield, Esq., La Fox, Kane county, Illinois.

The fare for the round trip to San Francisco on the Odd Fellows excursion is $55. A special Pullman car will be placed at the disposal of the excursionists. Tickets can now be procured of Mr. H. C. McCreery or the agents of the Santa Fe company.

In chambers yesterday Judge Harrison heard arguments for an injunction to prevent David Hilliard from conducting a dance hall at Colorado City to the annoyance of owners of property adjacent to his establishment. Decision was reserved in the case until to morrow.

P. L. of Chas. M. Carter contributes an interesting article on "Industrial Drawing" to the September number of the Century magazine. The article will be especially interesting to all as it treats at length the system now being taught in the schools of this city by Prof. Carter. Copies of the September Century can be found at the Consolidated Stationery Co's store.

Word was received late last night from the [illegible] that it would be impossible for them to play their game here before the 21st. It is the general impression that they are waiting to strengthen their team by the addition of Carson and Flicken who are expected to arrive in Denver about the 15th from Salt Lake City, at [illegible] playing. The stakes are a little too high for the "Solis" to tackle our team with their present club and they will make every effort to strengthen it as much as possible before they attempt to play here. The High School nine of Denver with Bates in the box will be here to-morrow afternoon and a good game may be looked for. The High school boys defeated the Zuzeteas club, the leading club in the Denver amateur league, last Monday in a well played game.

Miss Sarah Cowell, the eminent reader and elocutionist of New York, is spending a few days in Colorado Springs. The ladies who have assumed the direction of [illegible] entertainment in this city have secured the services of Miss Cowell to give a select reading at the opera house this evening, the proceeds of the entertainment to go to the Bellevue sanitarium fund. The people of this city and vicinity have a rare treat in store for them as Miss Cowell's reputation as a reader has become national. European critics have pronounced her the best exponent and interpreter of Browning's aesthetic of modern poet. Robert Browning. Her selections this evening will be varied to suit the tastes of all who may attend. The following is the programme:

Part 1st.

"The Way to Arcady," [illegible]

COLORADO CITY ITEMS.

Interest in local affairs and not small politics is reviving.

The prospects of bottling works in Colorado City are growing brighter.

Marshal Ross on Wednesday night arrested a man named Bowers who, while under the influence of liquor got a team from a Manitou livery stable and failed to return it. Bowers now languishes in the county jail.

Yesterday a pleasure party, composed principally of members of the press, were taken to the summit of Pike's Peak over the new toll road by the owners of the toll road company and Colorado Midland officials. Among those who were in the party which occupied a special Pullman car on the night express which arrived at Cascade at an early hour yesterday morning. The car was side tracked there, and at seven o'clock the occupants were awakened for breakfast, which was served in first class style at the Montezuma House.

...were in waiting to convey them over the road, and the outlook was favorable for a very pleasant trip. Dinner was partaken of at the Half Way house, and after passing through the usual short storm the party reached the summit just as the clouds had lifted, and a grand and extensive panoramic view of the surrounding country was obtained. All were loud in their praises of the beauty of the scenery, and the thorough manner in which the road had been constructed. The return trip to Cascade was made in quick time, and the party left for Denver early this morning. The arrangements for the trip were in charge of Passenger Agent Lee, of the Midland, and Mr. R. F. Weitbrec, of the toll road company, who left nothing undone that would add to the day's pleasure. Mr. W. H. Jackson, the Denver photographer, and Mr. George E. Mellen formerly of this city, accompanied the party and secured a number of excellent views. Among those who went to the summit were Mrs. William Stapleton, wife of the editor of the Denver Republican, Mr. C. N. Graves, who is on the editorial staff of the same paper, Solici...

The El Paso delegation is to be congratulated on its work in the state convention. It strengthened the ticket and the party by every vote.

Mr. Louis Schwanbeck, who received the nomination for state auditor, is a brother of Colonel Charles Adams, of Manitou, and Hermann Schwanbeck of Monument. For several years he was a citizen of this county. His nomination is a good one and will strengthen the ticket in the south.

The newspaper men all over the state will be pleased with the nomination of W. G. Smith, the editor of the Golden Globe, for lieutenant governor. He is a young man, but is emphatically fitted for the position. During 1892 he was the private secretary of Governor Tilman and acquired a familiarity with state affairs. Later he was elected president of the state press association, thus showing the esteem in which he was held by his profession.

We notice that the senate in discussing the Chinese treaty has looked at this question from a standpoint of cheap labor in such a narrow way. We are threatened with just exactly the same kind of danger from the pauper labor of Europe as from the pauper labor of China. It is only a question of degree. Besides, the pauper labor recently coming from Europe has been of an even more vicious character than the Chinese. To prevent England from exporting to this country any manufactured article that we cannot afford to make as cheaply as England, we put a protective duty on that article. This protects fully as much the manufacturer as the laboring man. But there is nothing to prevent the man who makes that article so much cheaper in England or any other foreign country from coming here and reducing wages. The great mass of our emigrants are perfectly satisfied to live in very contracted quarters, and have no thought of giving their children a chance to be educated men and women. We wish the laboring people of this country to receive sufficient [illegible] in a comfortable, healthful manner, to give their children a good common school education and have something of the refinements of life. This is not possible with the wages given abroad and yet we are doing battle against those who come from abroad who are satisfied to get along with much less. Had it not been that this country was growing rapidly and could readily find occupation for a large number of people the labor market would have forced the price of labor would have forced the level of the European price. We find that our wheat and all our manufactures must be sold in the open market as soon as we take them out of this country or permit the importation of any from abroad. It stands to reason that the same result will follow from unrestricted emigration. The [illegible] of a strict naturalization law and a strict surveillance of the character of the emigrants would soon make a change. It is folly to keep a country pure and re-[illegible] if it is made a "Botany Bay."

SWITZERLAND AND FRANCE.

Recollections of a Traveler in Switzerland and France.

[illegible], 1888.

LONDON, August 20, 1888.

A curious transition it is from one republic to the other, from gay and noisy Paris to quiet, though French-speaking Geneva once the Protestant Rome but for many years past much altered in outward appearance and even in character. At Paris I was not only struck with the vast architectural changes but in spite of the bustle and the incessant tramway looting in the streets with what seemed to me a considerable lowing down in the behavior of the people, as compared with times long gone by. There was greater quietness sometimes in the train and on the steamboat a demureness almost approaching that of English passengers. All the more extraordinary was the difference in the house of deputies, with its riotous scenes on the slightest provocation.

It is otherwise at Berne the seat of the Swiss parliament and executive. There the debates, not only in what may be called the senate, but also in the house of representatives, take place with the [illegible] To interrupt a speaker is a rare occurrence indeed. Even applause, or marks of dissent, are generally reserved for the conclusion of a speech. This is the more noteworthy as there are, in the two federal assemblies, men of three or four different races, with four different languages namely, Germans who form more than two-thirds of the population, and French Italian and Romance speaking Swiss. The diversity of character apparently involved in this polyglot state of the commonwealth is yet no bar to good parliamentary conduct. Whilst I was in Switzerland, the debates took place on the expulsion of foreign socialists. Though this affair roused the passions of a small minority in an unusual degree, the assembly at Berne throughout maintained a most dignified attitude.

A few words of explanation on the present Swiss constitution, as distinguished from the older state of things, may here well come in. I need scarcely mention that, originally, the country was an integral part of the German empire, as much as Wurtemberg or Bavaria or Prussia, are integral parts of the Germany of to day. In the fourteenth century, when the power of the elective German Kingship was on the wane, and the many princes who legally were only responsible officials of the empire, began to aim at semi-sovereign privileges, a universal democratic movement arose in many German towns and communes for the sake of preserving both popular freedom and national union. Civic leagues were formed, extending from Aachen which the French call Aix-la-Chapelle to Ulm and to Zurich; then still a town within the German boundary. The communities so united took the name of Eidgenossen, that is, men bound together by an oath.

In the Alpine parts of Germany, where nature itself has formed a stronghold for freedom, this movement was successful in the battles of Morgarten, Sempach and Näfels; whereupon independent republican communities arose there. In Lower Alemannia, the chief battle, at Dodlingen, was lost by the treachery of a nobleman who had introduced himself as a friend into the ranks of the Eidgenossen. In consequence of this event, and of the retaliation of princely power in Franconia, Swabia and Bavaria, which followed, the disruption of Switzerland from the German Empire took place. But to this day the Swiss still call themselves with the old name, Eidgenossen, and their confederation die Schweizerische Eidgenossenschaft.

Even so late as the seventeenth century, though practically independent of Germany, Switzerland was, in public law, yet reckoned to be in some way in connection with the motherland. This state of things only ceased in 1648, at the Peace of Westphalia, after the Thirty Years' war. Nevertheless, the right of garrisoning a certain region in the German Black Forest, in case of war, was even after those events received to Switzerland, in the same way as she has had, and still tacitly claims, a similar right in Savoy.

The [illegible] of the numerous cantons, each insisting on sovereign rights, made Switzerland for a long time the play ground of political confusion. These disturbances culminated, a little more than forty years ago, in the Sonderbund, or separatist League. It was an Ultramontane, Jesuitical plot in the very heart of the country, which had to be overthrown in 1847 by force of arms. General Dufour, whose equestrian statue now stands at Geneva, near the theatre, did effective patriotic service on that occasion. On a small scale he was the General Grant of Switzerland. When the Sonderbund had been vanquished, and [illegible] national liberal governments established under the federal regis, a new constitution was elaborated, which reorganized Switzerland in the sense of more compact union and broader popular freedom. This constitution was formally proclaimed in 1848, the great year of continental revolutions. Ever since, Switzerland has made fresh strides towards firmer political unity, better intellectual culture and greater [illegible] welfare of her people.

It will be remembered that when France drew up her new republican constitution in 1848 M. Grevy proposed to have no president of the republic chosen by universal suffrage, but to appoint a chief of the executive responsible to and revokable by the national assembly—by means of a parliamentary election. This was a feat taken from the brand new Swiss constitution. Only M. Grevy's motion couldn't even the provisions of [illegible] Napoleonic had universal suffrage not been a fetish in France for the election of a president in 1848 the Napoleonic pretender would have had [illegible].

France and Switzerland may be [illegible] Louis Philippe [illegible] suffrage so restricted [illegible] were only a few hundred thousand [illegible]. For days after the proclamation of the republic this number was swelled to [illegible]. At the same time [illegible] had been so neglected under previous governments that there were departments with sixty, seventy, and even more than 75 per cent of illiterates. I remember that in some parts of France where the ignorance of the priest-led peasantry was dense, the people in out-of-the-way districts were made to believe that "the old one (Napoleon I.) had never died," and that each [illegible] Louis Napoleon was in reality the petit caporal who had come back. There were parts of the country where the statement was not without truth that Le Roi Bibiche (Louis Philippe) had wrongfully ousted the king from his palace and was still living there with a mistress called La Martine (Lamartine). With a country population still so backward, the republic could not safely entrust the election of its chief magistrate to the masses.

In Switzerland perhaps not a composed as in the United States of twenty-five. They are the National Rath (national council) or House of deputies and the Stande Rath or council of cantons. The elections of the house of deputies go by universal suffrage from the age of twenty. For every 20,000 inhabitants [illegible]. The elections are direct. As to the appointment of the members of the Stande Rath which represents the cantons or states, each in the same way as in America the elective mode of each cantonal constitution is decisive. Practically, it is in this case also universal suffrage, or nearly so.

Combined, the two houses of parliament appoint the president of the confederation. In reality, he is only the chairman of bundes rath (federal council), that is, the executive, which itself is chosen by the united federal assemblies. This executive council, speaking a parliamentary committee, is composed of seven members for the [illegible] three years. Its president, who is thus the head of the confederation, is, however, only appointed to his office for one year. After the lapse of a twelvemonth he must go out and remains ineligible for the next year. As a rule, the vice president, who is also elected for only one year, steps into the place of the outgoing chief magistrate through a new election. Again, if there are new general elections for the house of deputies there must also be a totally new reconstruction of the executive. Thus the pure system of popular government is preserved throughout.

Though the German Switzers are in overwhelming majority, forming the main stock of the population and the powerful support of the commonwealth, there is, by law, full freedom for all nationalities to use their own tongue. Generally German and sometimes French, is spoken Italian rarely. If a member speaks in Italian, the official interpreter must give a translation, or the substance of the speech. A translation may also, legally, be asked for, if French is. Then but seeing that most German Swissers understand French, this does not occur. All laws passed by the federal assembly are published in three official texts—German, French and Italian.

I learn that the present chief magistrate of the confederation is a solitary instance of a man who does not, and will not, speak or learn French, so that in the intercourse with foreign diplomatists unacquainted with German, an interpreter must be present. With the pride of a German Swiss, Mr. Hertenstein is said to have declared in private that it might be as well if their Welsh speaking fellow citizens were to learn the language of the vast majority. In this, there is some truth; the French speaking section giving their wives too little trouble in that respect.

More than forty years ago, Switzerland had shifting seats of federal government, and its Tag Satzung, or parliament, often presented a spectacle of tumult. Now, Bern is the regular capital, and orderly democratic characterizes the procedures of the national representation. A very effective system of popular instruction has been introduced in most cantons. In matters civil and [illegible] unity [illegible] created from year to year. With compulsory service for all able bodied men, Switzerland, albeit barely containing 3,000,000 people, is able to put forth, at short notice, a citizen army of 200,000 men. She has no standing army, but she can do a great deal in the way of rapid mobilization. When, in the last war between France and Germany, a violation of the Federal territory was threatened by General Bourbaki, Swiss troops were quickly pushed to the front under General Herzog, in order either to [illegible] the French by to receive their broken hosts after a previous laying down their arms. Great hardship was endured by the Swiss soldiers during that terrible winter on the mountainous frontier, a fact illustrated in many a print on the walls of [illegible] huts. Curiously enough, when going over the Salève mountain into Savoy, I found even there such prints in a country inn. It was as if Savoy were a Swiss canton which [illegible] of the confederation of the country and the character of its inhabitants would look natural enough at a first glance.

Formerly the several cantons, with their multifarious constitutions on the patrician, semi priestly, conservative or democratic pattern, were often shaken by local revolutions, or attempts at a revolution. Since the reformed federal ground law of 1848 this too has changed. There is now greater uniformity in the cantonal [illegible]. Wherever it cannot a still hanging back, the movement for progress proceeds on the lines of legality. Riots are easily quelled by the marching in of Federal troops. Unity is promoted through the citizen soldiers of the German cantons garrisoning for a short while in Welsh Switzerland or vice versa.

Thus the Alpine republic is ever bettering its institutions. In the midst of militarized countries, jealously watching each other it forms a happy oasis of freedom and prosperity.

ST. LOUIS, September 6.—A special from Little Rock, Ark., says: A big sensation was [illegible] by the stealing of ten ballot boxes from the office of the county clerk. The safe was blown open to get them. The burglary was the work of experts. Excitement is running high and [illegible] about the clerk's office. A light is burning and [illegible] the door from the outside. A [illegible] county seat was stolen by masked men.

FORREST CITY, Ark., September 6.—A bloody affray over attempts to steal a ballot box by negroes occurred here on election day. The negroes singing the whites on their grand [illegible] a volley and fled. The fire was returned by the whites but without effect. The wounded are: John McMath fatally shot in the temple; J. B. Kinston, James Jones, Robert Ragsdale, J. M. Massey, George Williams and B. F. Bond.

ST. LOUIS, September 6.—The Post Dispatch has a special from Little Rock, Ark., giving the particulars of the election troubles in St. Francis county. The shooting occurred at Mill Brook, four miles from Forest City. The men guarding the ballot boxes were fired upon by a body of armed men who rode up at two o'clock in the morning and began firing from a thicket with effect, killing one and wounding six men. Their object is supposed to have been the stealing of the ballot boxes.

The Yellow Fever Scourge.

WASHINGTON, September 6.—Surgeon General Hamilton returned to Washington last night from his visit to Florida and Georgia. He says the stories published in regard to the condition of Camp Perry are gross exaggerations. If Jacksonville sent disreputable characters there it was not the fault of the government. Everybody except the citizens of Jacksonville was pleased. Additions to the [illegible] are being constantly made.

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., September 6.—A letter received from the small town of Bayard, Fla., says: It has just been discovered that the putrefying bodies of a woman and five children were in a supposed vacant house. It is believed that they are yellow fever refugees. No one dares to approach the house to bury them.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., September 6.—Twenty new cases and seven deaths were officially reported by the board of health for the eighteen hours ending at noon to-day. The executive committee of the Citizens' association was appointed this morning to prefer formal charges against and a statement of the conduct of Surgeon General Hamilton in connection with the yellow fever epidemic in Florida.
